College fraternities are dying, the collegiates say. That's true! Let them die, and let them be buried in the potter's field, without honors of any kind and with no mourners. Let them be buried to stay buried. Let nobody, high or low, ever propose their resurrection. Secret societies have been one of the evils which have sapped the life out of the colleges and made them as dead as Sodom. The scourge has spread to the public schools and it has caused the same irreparable damage there.

College and school fraternities of the secret order are built on snobbery and class preference based on wealth, influence, social standing and gang nationality. They represent gang politics as applied to our institutions of learning. They have set up wholly wrong standards as to the purposes of education. They have attempted to substitute secret "pull" and pressure for scholarship and the development of character. To a large extent they have got away with it, in the past. If their influence is on the wane it is a good thing for democracy and for the cause of education as a whole. Now is a good time to give them the "coup de grace," as the duellists say, and end them. If permitted to live at all they will be back in full force at some future time and the reform will have to start all over again.—THE PATHFINDER

POULTRY

LIKE GRADING PLAN IN MARKETING EGGS

More Careful Practices Are Found Profitable.

By R. E. Cray, Poultry Extension Specialist, Ohio State University—WNU Service.

Each year more eggs are marketed on a graded basis. Along with this trend it is noticeable that poultrymen are taking better care of their eggs. And we are finding that the farm practices leading to better quality are no more difficult to follow than many of the practices now in vogue that lead to poorer quality.

Eggs, like milk, deteriorate. Because the egg comes in a sealed package, and its appearance seems much the same whether kept under good conditions or poor conditions, farmers have come more slowly to those practices that make for quality.

Here are the four practices poultrymen say lead to good quality:

Remove all cockerels from the flock as soon as the breeding season is ended.

Use good laying ration. It happens that the best laying rations also are proving to be the rations that give quality and, when the eggs are fertile, hatchability.

Produce clean eggs, by using good litter in nests, on the floor, and covering dropping boards with wire netting.

Gather eggs frequently. One poultryman reports saving time by gathering four times a day. He had less washing to do, he explained.

Guinea Fowls Marketed

Like Other Game Birds

The marketing season for guinea fowls is during the latter part of the summer and throughout the fall. At this time the demand in the city markets is for young birds weighing from one to two pounds each. As the season advances, the demand is for heavier birds.

Guineas are marketed as game birds and, like game birds, are usually sold on the market unplucked, although hotels and restaurants buy them plucked. There are three varieties of guineas, white, pearl, and lavender, and although they were probably one of the earliest domesticated fowls, they still retain many of their wild characteristics. They can be raised profitably on most farms where the young birds are allowed to range, picking up waste grain and insects.—Missouri Farmer.

Warns Poultrymen on Iodine

Because production of eggs with a high iodine content is quite easy, and lately has become somewhat of a fad, California poultrymen have been advised by Dr. H. J. Almquist, research assistant in poultry husbandry, University of California, to proceed cautiously along this line. "The principle guiding much of this work," he said, "seems to be that, if a small amount of iodine in eggs is desirable, a large dose of it would be much better. This is following the same rule which caused the iodine lack to kill himself with cough medicine." Minimum and maximum iodine requirements of laying birds and growing chicks, according to Doctor Almquist, are not known, and until they are, considerable caution in the use of iodine supplements is to be recommended, he said.

Watch the Water Supply

Water fountains for poultry are often counted expensive appliances. Those who keep only a small flock are apt to think ordinary open vessels which can be bought for a small fraction of their cost will do as well. The great advantage of the fountain is that it keeps the water much longer at the temperature it was when put in, and that in summer there is very little evaporation from it. On a hot dry day water will evaporate from open drinking vessels so fast that they may be dry long before the time when they are usually refilled. Where the attendant is away from home all day, the consequence is that the birds are without water when they need it most.

Poultry Affairs

Poultry houses should be ventilated at the top.

Poultrymen have found it costs just as much to feed a nonlaying hen as it does a high producer.

The good layer has a long, slightly curved keel, a deep abdomen and body, a broad, straight, smooth back, good chest development, straight sides with the wings carried back from the hip bone to the stern.

Most of the hens in a flock can be kept in laying until late fall, when they should be allowed to rest about six weeks.

Yellow corn is much more valuable for scratch feed than white corn. It contains vitamin A which is so necessary for poultry growth.

Poultry experts have found that fowl pox, commonly known as "sores-head," is caused by a microscopic germ affecting the skin and mucous

FARMERS' COLUMN

THE FARM AND HOME

Farmers are urged to save sorghum and seed. There was a scarcity of sorghum of all kinds this year, which may result in a seed shortage next year. Even farmers who grew sorghum for straw are urged to save seed.

Experiments indicate that one of the most efficient and cheapest poultry rations consists of nothing more than corn, skim milk and mineral. Limestone fulfills the demand for minerals, which means that many Kentucky farmers produce a good poultry ration on their farms.

It is best to wait until leaves have fallen before setting trees and shrubs. Many persons make the mistake of setting them too early in the fall, Nov. 15 to Dec. 10 is considered a good time in Kentucky.

Nov. 11-17 has been designated national honey week. Honey should be better known and more widely used as it is the oldest and best of the many sweets. A palatable food, it is readily assimilated when taken into the system.

Tests made at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station show that manure gives the best results when applied to corn. In a corn, wheat and clover rotation. When applied on wheat, the increase in the corn yield was much less than when applied directly to corn.

NEW CORN-ING SIGN-UP

Following an approval of the corn ing program, by farmers voting in the recent poll, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced that it will make public its 1935 plan about Nov. 1.

A statement by Dr. A. G. Black, chief of the corn-ing section, says, in part: "The referendum results seem to indicate rather clearly that corn-ing producers want a follow-up program. In view of this indication, it has been decided to offer a definite plan."

the necessary provisions will be worked out. Such a plan probably will follow the general outline of the 1934 contract, involving control requirements and benefit payments with respect to corn and hogs.

"We are particularly interested in simplifying administrative procedure in order to eliminate unnecessary delays and to plug up holes that developed in working out the operations of the 1934 program."

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration's statement, released through the College of Agriculture at Lexington, says that "a new corn-ing adjustment program to follow the 1934 contract is deemed advisable to prevent an excessive increase in corn acreage and production and in hog numbers over the next year or two."

GOOD CHICKENS PAY

Sixty-six farmers cooperating with the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, in demonstrating good poultry raising, reported an average return of approximately $1.50 per bird over feed cost and miscellaneous expenses for the ten months period of Nov. 1, 1933, to Sept. 1 this year. There were a total of 7,345 layers in the 66 flocks.

White Leghorns averaged 155 eggs in the ten months and returned $1.17 over feed cost and miscellaneous expenses. Rhode Island Reds averaged 146 eggs and a profit of $1.82; Barred Plymouth Rocks, 135 eggs and $1.60, and White Plymouth Rocks, 117 eggs and $1.63.

Practically all of the eggs were sold at regular town store prices.

EDSON R. WAITE

Shawnee, Okla.

Samuel E. Bays, editor of the Plymouth (Ind.) Daily Pilot, says:

"There is a lot of talk these days about 'social security.' Books have been written about it and new deal statesmen consider it a part of their plan to make over the economic and social laws and customs of this nation."

"My social security is meant that every man, woman and child shall be secure in having the comforts of life; that none will have to worry about want during life or in old age. Can we have this social security without giving up something which is worth far more than security?"

"And shall we say, as a nation or as individuals, that everybody shall be secure in the comforts of civilized life no matter what he does? Shall the man who sows and strives and thinks carefully for his physical and mental comfort be compelled to pay out of his savings to support in comfort the one who squanders his substance in riotous living, and wrecks his physical and mental life by his excesses?"

"If that is attempted, we might as well go further and have the churches guarantee also that every person shall go to Heaven, or the Happy Hunting Grounds, regardless of what his life has been."

"This is a hard problem. Certainly every person who falls or comes to a sorry condition in life by no fault of his own should be cared for in some way. But just as certainly he who wastes his substance and his life by careless living is not entitled to any governmental aid."

"If life were made socially secure, all striving and worry taken from the shoulders of men and women, the human race would rapidly deteriorate and our civilization would disappear. We are so made, human beings must strive to accomplish, either by desire for better things or by compulsion of necessity, in order to make progress."

"There is dispute now as to whether the race has progressed or gone backward during the past two thousand years or more."

"DOUGH BOYS"

When the American bankers came to Washington for their national convention they had "dough in their eye." They were going to tell Roosevelt: "wow, wow," yes, they would! But he appeared before their association and "doughed" them and snuffed the Presidential smile. After that the olive branch was extended by Jackson E. Reynolds, president of the First National bank of New York, as spokesman for the banking forces of the country.

Believe it or not, it looks as tho the new union of government and bankers is a good match. For the sake of the public let us hope that the twain may work together for the common good.

People's Column

Relief, Kentucky, October 22, 1934

Editor,

The Licking Valley Courier,

Dear Sir:

Please permit me to use this column to answer the question of Mrs. Noah Nickell which appeared in this column last week.

There is a law requiring the reading of the Bible each day in the public school of Kentucky, altho I cannot recall to mind the section where it can be found, but certainly I have read it right from the Statute. This law makes it compulsory to read a certain portion from the Bible each day, I find that some teachers ignore this requirement if they know about it.

But ignorance of the law excuses no one. The law is sadly neglected and we need officers who will enforce these we already have, I very heartily agree with Mrs. Nickell that, altho we live in a land with churches and Sunday schools, there is room for expansion in religious and moral activities right among ourselves.

I fear that we all try to live too modern and have consequently forgotten or refuse to see the beauty in traditional ideas of our churches of a few decades ago. With the rush and bustle of our modern times, we all too often go too far in expressing our selves on certain ideas which have not the proper foundation for which to rest ourselves.

When the people get busy and go to the polls and cast their vote for Christian men and women who aspire to put the office instead of entering to dirty politics, this will be a country safe to live in and in which that will be glorified. But when we remain content or apparently unconcerned and let the lawless element elect so drunkards to office, we cannot expect to see anything but young men and women drink and ruin their lives by the things that drink will ultimately lead them.

Morality and righteousness should be taught in our public schools along with the subjects that are supposed to culture the mind. Herein lies the great opportunity of the teacher to render to humanity a service sorely found in any other position.

A Heartfelt Thanksgiving

THE tradition of days of Thanksgiving in this country has been that they were appointed out of gratitude for perils overcome and dangers averted rather than as thanks for a season of bounteous crops. There was only a meagre harvest in 1621 when Governor Bradford appointed the first American day of Thanksgiving, but he appointed it nevertheless.

Since 1864, our Presidents have proclaimed annually the last Thursday in November as a day of national thanksgiving. That day falls this year on November twenty-ninth.

A Good Year to Celebrate

If we adhere to the original reason for thanksgiving, this year with its strikes, actual and threatened, its disastrous drought, its threats of war, its need of millions for relief of the poor and its widespread business stagnation is a mighty good year to celebrate.

But, if you want to hear real thanksgiving as well as celebrate it, pack up every morsel of food you have left after dinner in baskets, and start out to look for someone who needs it. If you don't know anyone yourself, your local relief organization can give you the names of any number of people who will appreciate such a call.

It's a good plan, too, when you do this, to ask for people who have children in the family. They will not only appreciate the

A Late Snack Helps Bring Sound Sleep to Betty Boop

By Mabel Love

It requires a lot of energy to keep going all the time like little Mao (Betty Boop) Questel, the voice of Betty Boop, screen character. Mae herself, on or off the stage, is as vivacious as the screen Betty Boop. Her laugh and merry brown eyes are just as infectiously captivating.

"I keep busy, of course, but I'm strong and healthy and I suppose that is because my mother takes good care of me," Mae explains and in offering this explanation she undoubtedly gives credit where credit is due. Her mother is of the sensible, old-fashioned type who every thought is for her daughter's health and happiness.

Science has shown that a light, easily digested snack just before going to bed helps bring sound sleep, and this is a practice which Mae regularly follows. After one of her stage appearances, just before going to bed, she usually eats a generous bowl of corn flakes and cream which her mother provides for her.

Her mother plans her other meals, too, taking care to choose the foods that promote health and energy. A braut bread falls in this class and below is a recipe for it.

Braut Bread
1 egg
1 1/2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups melted butter
1 1/2 cups corn meal
1 1/2 cups flour
1 1/2 cups baking powder
1 1/2 cups salt

CAN IT BE DONE?

By Ray Gross

SINGLE POINT AUTO SUSPENSION

THE DEAD CENTER OF A SEE-SAW IS PRACTICALLY MOTIONLESS. WHY NOT A SHOCK ABSORBING SUSPENSION CONSTRUCTED ON THAT PRINCIPLE? A CAR SUPPORTED ON A SINGLE POINT AT THE CENTER OF GRAVITY AS ABOVE PICTURED WOULD ELIMINATE ALL SHOCK AND MAKE ROUGH ROADS AS SMOOTH AS PAVED ONES.

Do you think this idea is practical? Write Ray Gross in care of this newspaper.

MELBA Cleansing Cream

Beauty's Foundation

Your face must be clean to be beautiful. It's the foundation of everything. Melba Skin Cleanser is exactly adapted to your type of skin. It goes into the pores more thoroughly and gets the dirt out best. It leaves the skin soft, exquisitely smooth and never enlarges delicate pores.

Fewer Aches and Pains More Health and Pleasure

PAIN drags you down—physically, mentally, morally.

Why continue to endure it? Try Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills for Headache, Neuralgia, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic, and Periodic Pains. They seldom fail.

Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills are pleasant to take and prompt to act. They do not upset the stomach, cause constipation or leave you with a dull, depressed feeling.

Ask your druggist or any of the hundreds of thousands enthusiastic users. Probably you too can find relief.

I think all Dr. Miles medicines are wonderful, but Anti-Pain Pills are my favorite.

Mrs. Doc Blankenship, Stamford, Texas: I have used your Anti-Pain Pills only a short time, but they have given me prompt relief. They did for me in a week more than any other medicine I had taken for a year. Phil Goller, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

I am never without Anti-Pain Pills. I think they are much better than anything else I have ever used. Sometimes when I am tired and nervous, and feel like I would go under, I take two Anti-Pain Pills and in a short time I feel like a different person.

Mrs. S. Tidabach, Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania: Your Anti-Pain Pills have been used in my home with wonderful results. I recommend them.

Maggie Belle Dudley, Vanceboro, N. C.: Your Anti-Pain Pills helped me a great deal. I have used them for years. I carry them everywhere in my purse and always keep them in the house. They have saved me a great many sick headaches.

Mrs. Jennie Neill, Coronado, Calif.

AN EYE TO THE FUTURE

A touring actor entered a tailor's shop and gave an order for a suit. He took home a small pattern of the material and showed it to his son.

"What do you think of it, Tommy?" he asked.

"Not bad," Tommy replied.

"Why, you're looking at the wrong side," added the actor.

"I know I am," the boy replied, "but that's the side I shall have to wear when the suit is handed down to me."

It Hurts!

First Woman—Well, I must be off. I've an appointment with mother.

Second Woman (giving no astonished laugh)—My dear, is it possible that you have a mother living?

First Woman (laughing in her turn)—Yes, oh, yes. And do you know, I don't believe she looks a day older than you.

Dentist Rivalry

Dentist—My method of extraction is so painless that patients have gone to sleep to the chair.

Colleague—Mine is so painless and pleasant that patients ask to be photographed during extraction because they look their best.

Hunger Is a Fine Sauce

"What are you going to have for breakfast, dear?"

"I'm making."

"What's the French pronunciation? You mean 'patatoes,' don't you?"

"No, I don't want a bracelet to buy the flour."

THATS THAT

Mr. Scrapp—I have a mind of my own.

Mr. Scrapp—Don't worry about anybody laying claim to it.

Poor Ivanhoe

First Scholar—What part of the body is the fray?

Second Scholar—Fray? What are you talking about?

First Scholar—This book says that Ivanhoe was wounded in the fray.

Imaginel

Father—Kenneth, didn't you enjoy your visit with the Bergs?

Kenneth—Now, they've got too high-toned to suit me. They're all in their hands.—Pathfinder Magazine.

A Gallant Fellow

Her Mother—Why don't you yawn when he stays too long? Then he'll take the hint and go.

Daughter—I did yawn—and all he did was to tell me what beautiful teeth I had.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Old Songs

"Do you enjoy the old songs?"

"Not much," answered Miss Cynaeen. They remind me of dear old friends and I can't imagine how they could have been so silly as to sing some of them."

His Only Worry

"Don't you sometimes fear that you have more than your share of venality?"

"No," said Dustin Stax. "It's the possibility of getting less than my share that worries me."

A HOT ONE

Emphatic Man—When I say a thing I mean it.

The Woman—But, sometimes that only makes it worse!

Explained

Diner—Here, waiter, I've found a hook and eye in this chicken salad.

Waiter—It's part of the dressing, sah.—Pathfinder Magazine.

One Version of It

"Why have you your arm in a sling?"

"Well, I went riding last Sunday and by accident dismounted first with my hands and then with my feet."
